

Three Comments from YL Yahoo groups about Cancer

1--They just presented scientific evidence at the Young Living Convention, third party, double-blind, scientific studies that showed that Frankincense, Sandalwood and Berry Young Juice have a 72% inhibition rate against cancer. Dr. Jaime Mata has shown that Frankincense has a greater than 92% inhibition rate and a 62% kill rate in the most aggressive strains of Breast Cancer. There was another presenter at Convention, Nicole Stevens - at the University of Las Vegas Cancer Research Center - who studied 69 single oils and 7 blends for their effectiveness against cancer cells. She found that Sandalwood had the broadest action against all cancers and that Idaho Balsam Fir, Frankincense, Myrrh and Sandalwood had a greater than 72% inhibition rate against skin cancer, lymphoma, breast cancer and prostate cancer. These are scientific studies, not Young Living promoting something. / unknown

2-- I have a client who had prostate cancer. He went to 2 doctors who wanted him to have surgery but found a 3rd at Mass General in Boston who agreed to have him try orange oil for a few months. He took 10 ml a day in capsules for 2 to 3 months. When he went back he was cancer free. Now he takes 2 capsules of orange oil every day as maintenance and gets checked every 6 months. / Dottie

This testimony is one of the most powerful testimony ever and a really an eye opener.. Really listen to what Artemis says about the quantity of the oils when dealing with a serious problem. We tend to think that a little will do, but a person has to attack the situation with big guns. The problem is big and if a person just plays with the oils, it just tickles the situation and ignores what you are trying to do to get rid of it.

“I found that if I only take 1 capsule of Exodus II if I feel a cold coming on that it doesn't stop it in its tracks, but if I take 2 capsules of Exodus II before I go to bed, then its gone and never erupts into a full blown cold. Its gone over night. I have not had to do this for over 1 1/2 years now. So I feel that my immune is really strong, but I still take Exodus II off and on to keep it that way and use the products as Gary suggested to keep the immune system strong.” / Artemis

You know that Dr.'s will give you potent pills and you have to take them until they are gone, but we have a tendency to use the oils until we start to feeling better and quit, then it comes back. So do the same with the products and essential oils. You want that bug gone for good and not hiding in a corner to come back when you stop using the products and it comes back ten-fold with a grin on its face.

The Tale of two Tumors

In my last bulletin, I mentioned that I came across Young Living when I was looking for help with my own health. In 1998 I had a benign tumor of the salivary gland, and the doctors wanted to operate on it. I was looking for a natural solution.

Although I had many, many wonderful successes with the oils, this was one thing that didn't clear up with the oils. I ended up 2 years later having it operated on. It was through the recovery process that I reconnected with Noel, and we ended up marrying a few years later (so I can certainly see a higher purpose in how my journey unfolded). Yet it always puzzled me. Why did I have such great results with the oils, yet I didn't have success on the tumor?

A few years after that, Gary Young was sharing in a class about a woman with exactly the same type and size tumor as me, except hers was malignant. She visited his clinic, and he put her on a protocol of oils and supplements. The tumor disappeared in 48 hours!!! So what made the difference? Why did it work for her, and not for me? It was all about quantity of oils used. I was using 1 drop of Frankincense oil twice a day, rubbed topically.....Gary was saturating the area with oils 8 times a day, and having her ingest 6 to 12 capsules of oil a day (20 drops in a capsule).

He used multiple oil combinations, each involving Frankincense mixed 50:50 with another oil (the specific combinations in her case were: Frankincense and Tsuga, Frankincense and Clove, Frankincense and Idaho Balsam Fir, and Frankincense and Ledum). Gary explained his reasoning as follows: he chose the oil for the disease (in this instance, Frankincense is the oil most commonly researched for its effects on cancer). And then he mixed it with the oil for the location, so that the Frankincense was then specifically carried to the areas it needed to target.

I ponder why Gary chose these particular oils to accompany the frankincense, and here are my ideas: Ledum targets the liver, which is compromised in so many of us due to our Western diet and lifestyle. Cleansing the liver is a great way to start with any health problem. Tsuga was researched by Professor Rex Cates of Brigham Young University, and found to be 99.10% effective against cervical cancer in tests done in vitro (I.e.. in a Petrie Dish). Balsam Fir had just been released at that time, and was one of the oils believed to be used by Jesus in his ministry. And Clove oil is the highest anti-oxidant oil ever tested.

As an aside: When Gary works with people with cancer, he does many things in addition to an oils and supplement protocol. He also puts them onto an alkaline vegetarian diet (since the body's digestion is compromised), and he ensures they are receiving daily treatments with oils - such as Raindrop Technique, Neuroauricular Technique, or Emotional Clearing. He believes strongly in journaling, and addressing the underlying emotional causes to the dis-ease, in conjunction with any protocols used. He will have them adopt a healthy fitness program, and a healthy way of eating. He uses Live and Dry blood analysis, and many medical tests, in order to monitor his clients' progress. He works with his intuition, in selecting the best protocol. And the protocol is largely about detoxifying alkalizing the body. Under normal circumstances, we wouldn't hit the body this hard with oils - it is likely to bring on a massive and very uncomfortable detox (nausea, vomiting, etc.) Yet as Gary has often said, he usually gets the worst cases, and has very little time to "turn them around". He also has a great deal of experience, and is a health care professional (a naturopath with medical training).

So I found my answer. I simply wasn't using enough oil.....and I truly believe that sometimes our life is meant to follow a particular pathway. In my case, I had an amazing doctor who did a great job of the operation (with no paralysis or ongoing problems).....and that whole experience brought to me the most amazing man I could ever imagine, and the most amazing lifestyle with Young Living.

If you have a question about what oils to use for what situations.....go to www.oil-testimonials.com, a fabulous resource for learning what oils others have used for different situations.

From Jean Bennett, I highly recommend the “Essential Oils Desk Reference” for ideas on how to use therapeutic grade oils for certain situations.

DISCLAIMER: REMEMBER, everyone is different and cancer is very individualized, so do not follow these examples unless you are working with a professional aromatherapist and your oncologist.
